Paint Protection Film Installation Guidelines:
Paint protection film installation is a meticulous process, and this document serves to set expectations for your installation and as a reference point for the future.

Curing Period: Allow 7-10 days for the paint protection film to fully cure. Avoid washing your vehicle during this period, and refrain from using pressure washers or abrasive materials on the film to ensure proper bonding.

Warranty: The paint protection film comes with a 10 year warranty against yellowing, bubbling, or peeling. This warranty excludes damage caused by accidents, improper care, intentional abuse. Although rare, rock chips through the film are not covered, and are considered part of wear and tear.

Pre-Existing Paint Conditions: Pre-existing imperfections such as rock chips, scratches, or blemishes on the paint may be more visible after the installation of the paint protection film. PPF does not conceal or repair these imperfections.

Hand-Cutting and Application: In some cases, the PPF is hand-cut to fit the unique contours of your vehicle. While every effort is made to provide a clean and precise fit, slight exposed edges may be present, particularly on complex surfaces or tight corners.

Film Application: Dust, debris, or minor imperfections may be present in the PPF installation due to environmental factors. Though rare, these are considered normal within industry standards and do not affect the protective performance of the film.

Aftercare: Do not wash the vehicle for at least one week after installation. When washing, only use soft, non-abrasive materials and avoid harsh chemicals to preserve the film's clarity and finish.

Damage Exclusions: Damage caused by sharp objects, improper washing techniques, or contact with abrasive surfaces is not covered by the warranty. Installing PPF over damaged paint may increase the visibility of existing flaws.

Edge Lifting: In some cases, minor edge lifting may occur during the curing process. If this happens, please contact us for adjustments within the first two weeks of installation.

Refund Policy: No refunds will be issued after the installation is completed. In rare cases, replacement may be considered if installation errors are identified and do not meet industry standards.

Photo Release: Signing this form authorizes The Barber Shop to use any photos or videos of your vehicle for promotional purposes, including social media and advertisements unless discussed otherwise.

The Barber Shop strives for client satisfaction and maintains a commitment to quality work. By signing this waiver, you understand the realistic expectations of paint protection film installation, our installation process, and the care and maintenance procedures post-installation.
